

T1:1/2
Title: untitled
By: Kuang-Yu Tsui
From: a fluid urban space probably in Taipei

Shortcut: We virtualize a kind of exhaustion/need, and believe it along with what it produces could satisfy our fantasy. We unconditionally offer ourselves to be an organic reading room for everyone to seek their hope in identity exchanging operations, and therefore we construct a market of fluid consciousness.

To penetrate/to be penetrated: Another status existing in this complex domain is the phenomenon of inter-penetration. In such complex public terrain, our stream of consciousness exchanges and penetrates in micro-unit, while the shortcuts and context are enfolded in recognizable traceable language, sound, images, and behaviors. The collective consciousness takes the direction of our life and measures our living status. As we no longer ignore the discouraging living ambience, it further offers a fluid launching station to penetrate obstacles from the physical appearance of communicative signs.

